BRIGHT FOR FAIR.

Campaign of Education Is Nearly Completed.

The People Now Know What It Means to County.

Being Sent Out.

The campaign of education which is

The campaign of education which is being waged by the Commercial club and others interested in the voting of $50.000 to aid in building up a great state fair, apparently is proving most effective. A party of fair men made a tour through the southern portion of the county, and found the sentiment strongly in favor of the bonds.

"Of course we want the bonds to be issued," said Z. A. Emmerson of Auburn. "The cost is very small to each taxpayer, only one cent on the hundred dollars assessment. We can surely afford that. We are not afraid of the commissioners or the fair officials getting the money as we see and understand how it will be spent by them. There are some people around here opposed to the bonds but they are the ones who have the smallest taxes to pay."

ones who have the smallest taxes to pay."

C. W. Smith, the hotel man at Wakarusa, said: "Most of the people down here are heartily in favor of the bonds as they realize that better accommodation at the fair grounds are necessary to have a better and larger fair."

H. M. Philips, a prominent man and a banker at Dover said about the bonds: "They will carry here all right as our people realize the value of getting a big fair in this county and they have every confidence in the officers of the state fair since the remarkable showing that they made at the fair this year."

H. M. Philips, a prominent man and a banker at Dover said about the bonds: "They will carry here all right as our people realize the value of getting a big fair in this county and they have every confidence in the officers of the state fair since the remarkable showing that they made at the fair this year."

Frank Stahl, who dined at the White Elephant campaign headquarters was enthusiastic over the proposed bond issue. "I think if the farmers were assued in their own minds that the fair in the future will be conducted like the last one," said he, "they would be unanimously in favor of the bonds. The fair is educational, and the farmers all express themselves as being greatly pleased with the exposition in September."

"It doesn't seem possible," said J. T. (Stoddard-Dayton), third. Time 15:18.25.

"It doesn't seem possible," said J. T. 'It doesn't seem possible," said J. T.

"It doesn't seem possible," said J. T. Polly, who lives north of Topeka, "that anyone would vote against the bonds when the benefits to be derived from a fair are considered. The grounds were first purchased for $8,000, and I paid $200 of that amount as I was in business in Topeka at that time. I have never regretted having invested my money in this way. A fair is the means of increasing the value of property each year."

Thirteen thousand post cards are being sent out from the office of the State Fair association, giving facts about the fair and bond proposition the voters should know.

Government, Railroad and Mexico to Work Together.

Washington, Nov. 4.—At a conference at the White House today President Taft obtained a promise of cooperation on the part of the Southern Pacific Railroad company in making improvements to the Colorado river to prevent the overflow of that stream during the spring freshets.

Later the president took up the matter with Mr. De Labarra in the Colorado river to provide the county are very much in armest about this fair proposition. The men pushing this enterprise are large taxpayers, honorable and responsible in every way.

"Be sure and vote on this issue one way or the other."

The county?

"The men behind this enterprise are giving their time and money; not a dollar is paid officers, outside of secretary's salary. Why should they do a this? They know that a large, well directed state fair in Shawnee county pull benefit every property owner, business man, and citizen in the county. The people of the county are very much in earnest about this fair proposition. The men pushing this enterprise are large taxpayers, honorable and responsible in every way.
